Funk, whom it is alleged, Edward Hines asked for a $10,000 contribution toward the Lorimer election fund from International Harvester Company, of which Funk is general manager, was before the senate committee today, he repeated his conversation with Hines in which the latter is alleged to have made request for a contribution.

Funk denied that his company ever used money to secure votes in legislative or congressional and said that he told Hines as much. When Hines began to argue for Lorimer, Funk said he got up and went away. He said that the only other name mentioned by Hines was that of Edward Tilden.

PROPOSAL SUBMITTED FOR STREET LIGHTS

JANESVILLE ELECTRIC CO. HAS MADE PROPOSITION WITH REGARD TO ORNAMENTAL LAMPS.

ACTION LOOKED FOR

Matter Will Be Brought Before Common Council Tonight and It Is Expected New System Will Be Favored.

Tonight at the meeting of the common council the aldermen will consider the proposal of the Janesville Electric company for the plans and specifications and costs of maintenance of the ornamental street lights in the downtown districts of the city. The project is one which the Industrial and Commercial club of Janesville is backing and which all public-spirited citizens have given their endorsement. The proposal plans call for two sizes of lamps one, the five-lamp size, like the one erected at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets, near the Bower City bank, and another, with three lights. The three-light post is of the same pattern as the five-light except that there is one top lamp and only two side lamps. It is proposed to put one of the five-light posts on each of the four corners at the street intersections and fill in the spaces between with three-light posts. On a standard block 267 feet in length, this would place a five-light post on each corner and two between the posts, all opposite each other. In longer blocks more three-light posts would be put up.

To light the downtown streets of Janesville, it is estimated in the proposal, thirty-seven five-light and forty-eight three-light posts would be needed. Each would cost $100 or a total cost of $7,500. The Electric company agrees to contribute twenty-five per cent of the cost, making the cost to the city $5,625. Each of the five-light posts would be furnished with one 100-watt, and four 40-watt Tungsten lamps and the three-light posts with one 100-watt and two 40-watt Tungsten lamps. The posts will be installed by the company with underground wiring connected with the nearest pole of the company and with switches so the top lights could be used separately from the bottom lights.

The company, if approved to use, will cost the city, delivered in Janesville, with glassware, socket or wiring, $40 each for the five-light posts and $38 for the three-light posts.

The Industrial and Commercial Club has agreed to raise the money by contributions secured from the owners of abutting property, tenants, and other sources and the company, in the proposal states it would agree to allowing the city to discontinue the present light in the district.

The company agrees to maintain and operate the lights from dusk until midnight for $12 per year for the five-light posts and $31 per year for the three-light posts, the cost per year to be $3184 and to be paid in monthly installments.

ALASKAN INTERESTS OF GUGGENHEIM AND CUNNINGHAM DENIED

Commissioner of General Land Office Orders Billion Dollar Coal Land Claims Cancelled, Frustrating Syndicate Plans.

Washington, June 26.—The famous Cunningham-Guggenheim coal claim in Alaska, estimated to be worth from $400,000,000 to one billion dollars, today were ordered cancelled by Commissioner Fred Dennett, of the general land office, with the approval of Secretary of the Interior Fisher.

This decision, it is said, frustrates the alleged effort of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate to secure Alaska in the matter of coal lands. These are the lands that caused the Ballinger-Pinchot fight. Pinchot's supporters look on the decision as a victory for them.

The Guggenheim forces say they will carry the case to the United States supreme court.

Pinchot Makes Statement.

New York, June 26.—The cancellation of the Cunningham claim is proof, given by the administration itself, that the fight made against it to prevent coal monopoly in Alaska, was not only successful, but necessary and right. This was the statement of former Erastus Gifford Pynchot to the United Press today, when told of the interior department's decision.

CORONER'S INQUEST BEING HELD TODAY

WITNESSES IN HISCHKE TRAGEDY TAKE STAND TODAY BEFORE JURY OF SIX.

DEFENSE HAS WORD

Inquest Being Held Before Judge Tallman in Wednesday Night's Shooting Affair Prolonged throughout the Day.

Testimony of Catherine Hischke and her father, constituted the work of the afternoon at the coroner's inquest in the case of the shooting of Mrs. John H. Hischke by Louis Keller, last Wednesday night, which was held in the office of Justice of the Peace Tallman today. The session with a jury of six began at nine o'clock this morning and after taking other testimony from several witnesses the afternoon was devoted to the examination of the principals in the tragedy.

It was three o'clock before Catherine Hischke was allowed to step from the stand and the examination was characterized by a series of questions by John Fisher, attorney for the defense. This was followed by the preliminary examination and there had been no opportunity for him to question any of the witnesses. The testimony of the girl was a matter of confusion and was a story of her relations to Keller.

Several members of the jury objected to the continued cross examination of Mr. Fisher described. Mr. Hischke followed on the stand.

At the inquest this morning several witnesses were examined by the district attorney and the revolver, with which Keller is alleged to have shot Mrs. Hischke, was shown the jury. Concerning this, Robert Clithero, employed at the Sheldon Hardware store, told of selling a weapon similar to the one introduced in the inquest, to Keller on the day before the shooting.

Officers Sam Born, John Brown and Edward Hill, who were called to the Hischke home immediately after the woman was killed and of the capture of Keller.

Officer Fanning described the position in which he found Mrs. Hischke lying when he spotted the scene. Two pictures of the Hischke home and yard, taken by A. L. Rogardus, were brought in as evidence and with these the defense described the woman's position when found.

LOOK FOR CLOSE OF SESSION NEXT WEEK

JULY 8 DATE SET FOR FINAL ADJOURNMENT OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

SOLONS ARE SCARCE

Re-Appportioning Bill, Income Tax and Educational Appropriation Are Three Important Things To Settle.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., June 26.—This is expected to be the last working week of the present session of the legislature and final adjournment will probably be taken on July 8. Under the constitution the governor has six days to consider bills after they have been filed with him. If the last bill is filed next Friday or even Saturday, final adjournment can be taken on July 8. The governor, however, may not avail himself of the privilege of taking six days after the last bill is filed. In fact he has caused the leader of the legislature to send him bills part of next week. However, all of the appropriation bills and other measures requiring the presence of a quorum will be disposed of this week. It is hard to keep a quorum at either house in Madison at this stage of the season. Most of the members have business interests which require their presence at home. Many members have already gone to their homes with the announced intention of not returning unless summoned by the sergeant-at-arms.

The present one will be a busy week in both houses. Three of the most important things to come up will be bills re-appportioning the state into legislative and congressional districts, the income tax bill, and the state educational appropriation bill.

The assembly last Friday passed the bill re-appportioning the state into 100 legislative districts. This number, however, is the same as at the present, but the arrangement of districts is far different from that of the present law.

The chief difference under the new law is at the northern portion of the state and in Milwaukee county will have a larger representation. In the assembly, while the counties of Rock, Sauk, Columbia, Chippewa and Marinette each lose one district. The reduction in the representation of Marinette county was not on the program, but some of the Republicans united with the Democrats and Social Democrats, and "slipped one over" on the special committee on reapportionment, by reducing the number of districts in Marinette county. It was possible to give Milwaukee county an additional, increasing its number from eighteen to nineteen.

It is probable that the senate will concur in the bill tomorrow. The bill re-appportioning the state into senatorial districts will likely be introduced in the upper house tomorrow and as there seems a little objection to the re-appportionment proposed the measure will probably pass tomorrow or Wednesday.

The bill re-appportioning the state into congressional districts has not yet been agreed on in committee. Not Owen, chairman, today declared a draft of the measure would be ready for introduction as soon as the legislative reapportionment bills are disposed of by the senate. It cannot be said what changes will be made in the congressional map of the state, but it is probable that they will create much of a fight in the legislature.

The senate is expected to concur in the assembly amendments to the income tax bill. At that event the measure will probably be sent to the governor by the middle of next week. The chief difference of opinion is over the referendum provision which was struck out by the assembly. This provision was to the effect that the bill was not to go into effect until approved by the voters at the state election a year from next November. The senate, the leaders believe, will agree to strike out this referendum provision. This increase in exemptions of income for unmarried and married persons will, it is believed, be agreed to by the senate, but not without a fight.

The bill appropriating five million dollars to the state university and state normal schools was passed by the senate last Friday and will come up for consideration in the lower house tomorrow. The general belief is that the measure will be concurred in without material change. It appropriates $7,500,000 to the university for the ensuing two years, of this amount $2,500,000 will be raised by a state tax of three-eighths of a mill on all taxable property. The normal schools will receive $1,000,000, of which about $1,000,000 will be raised by a state tax of one-sixth of a mill on the same class of property. The money will be used in maintaining and improving the university and normal schools.

The bill passed, making the office of state insurance commissioner elective by the governor instead of elected as heretofore, will likely be introduced within a few days. It provides that the term of office shall be four years instead of two as at present, and the salary to be $5,000 annually. It is almost assured that Insurance Commissioner H. L. Eckern, who was elected last fall, will be appointed to the office as soon as the measure becomes a law.

JANESVILLE SCOUTS ARE NOW RECOGNIZED

COMMUNICATION FROM SCOUT HEADQUARTERS RECEIVED BY SECRETARY REEDER THIS MORNING.

COMMISSION TO MEET

This Evening At Five O'clock To Appear Chief Commissioner and Transact Other Business—Plans For Scouts.

Secretary Chas. W. Hoeder, of the local Boy Scout commission, this morning received confirmation of Janesville's application for a scout charter, and official recognition of the movement in this city. Mr. Hoeder has been in communication with the national headquarters of the scouts, for some time, and when the final instructions, received this morning have been carried out, Janesville's scout movement will be officially enrolled.

This evening at five o'clock, a meeting of the commission which was elected last week will be held and a chief commissioner, who will represent the body and carry out its business will be appointed. When this has been done and the chief commissioner has received his commission from the national headquarters, it will be equivalent to enrollment and chartering in the national association.

Drilling For Fourth.

The enthusiasm among the boys who have enrolled as scouts is increasing and they are drilling among themselves and under the direction of Capt. Jacks, getting ready to march in the parade on July 4th. The badges and uniforms which are worn by the boys have already been ordered and it is hoped that they will be here in time for the parade, but the boys will take their part whether they come or not.

Already some of the boys have earned merit marks for deeds of kindness, which is part of the scout oath. These marks are given only to those earning them and are not given when the boys themselves report their deeds, but only at the report of the person helped or some one knowing of the deed.

A new complete manual of the scout rules and duties has just been received from the national commission and gives a very good idea of the nature of the scout movement. There are twelve virtues which are to be cultivated by the boys. The scout must be trustworthy, loyal, useful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent.

Two Study Branches.

The work of the Janesville commission, like that of all of the commissions, will have two branches study and practice. The boys will be instructed by the council in the history of various things, such as civility, the history of the United States, the lives of American statesmen and there will be a regular course of reading laid out along the above lines for the boys to follow. It is the intention of the commission to instruct in and give merit marks for good manners, cheerfulness, character, thrift and individuality, as well as courage, loyalty and manliness.

The scouts will also study life saving, first aid to the injured, and the various methods of saving life from all such disasters as fire, drowning, electrical burns, gas, poison, runaways, etc. They will also study the various remedies for such things as burns, snake bites, bug stings, etc.

Practical Matter Taught.

In the practical things they will be taught to swim, and to rescue others from drowning, and the instructors will teach them all the common tricks used in these rescues; they will learn the best methods of saving people who have fallen through the feet; and also to save themselves in similar emergencies.

However, their greatest training will be that given on the different patrols, and by the different officers. Each boy is to be taught to see things and to observe carefully so as to be able to tell what he has seen. Anything which is not understood is to be asked of the Scout Master and will be explained as fully as possible.

It is the object of the commission to teach the boys to be fairly skillful at the estimation of heights, distances, and areas, things which as a rule, city boys are not very skillful at, having never had any need of using their power.

In particular, the boys will be taught self-reliance and bravery. The boys will not be taught to fight, but one who cannot fight cannot be a scout. It is to be the scout rule never to pick a fight, and to always act on the defensive; but no scout, when attacked by rowdies or hoodlums, will run.

Penalties for Horses.

The highly original will of an eccentric bachelor, Emil von Bizony, is reported from Vienna. The deceased, the brother of a well-known Hungarian deputy, was 66 years old, defeated women and lived on war footing with all his relations.

In his will he bequeathed all his real and personal estate, worth about $20,000, to his twelve draft horses. An executor of the will he named the Society for the Protection of Animals at Budapest, stipulating that the interest on his property should be devoted to the care of these twelve animals, and that upon the death of one of them another aged horse was to be taken in and cared for, so that the number of twelve might always be maintained.

Herr von Bizony's relations were naturally amazed at the contents of the will, and the deputy, Herr Albusin Bizony, will dispute it. Negotiations have been commenced with the above-mentioned society, and $4,000 was offered it, but refused.

"Sheep-Nose" Cars.

An interesting type of car is in use on the electric railroad running from Indianapolis to Toledo. This car is provided with a parabolic front end, commonly called a "sheep-nose." The object of this arrangement is to reduce wind resistance when the cars are running at high speed, also to make it easier for the car to force its way through snow drifts. The frame of the car is very strongly built, and is arranged to carry a steel sheathed pilot which serves as a snow plow.

MECHANICAL DEVICE THAT DOES AWAY WITH LABOR.

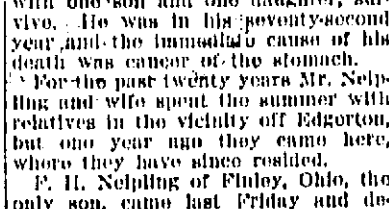

Idea of Duluth Man Means Great Saving in Expense of Building Railroads—Method Is Simple, but Highly Efficient.

While machines have been steadily taking the place of ordinary labor in most branches of work, the man with the shovel has held his position unchallenged in the work of grading and ballasting railroad track. Now, however, a railroad builder of Duluth, Minn., has devised a machine that he believes is destined to do the work of lifting jacks and the gangs of shovelers and tamers.

It consists of a self-propelled car, from one end of which extends a 34-foot truss boom carrying the track lifting device and a carriage on which are the shovel arms. The track lifting device consists of two traveling grappling arms which engage the rails at the joints and midpoints, and lift them until there is sufficient clear space beneath the ties for the shovels to operate. A battery of shovel arms is provided on each side. The battery on one side, or even the individual shovels in each battery, may be operated independently. The shovel arms have both a lateral and vertical motion, and a joint at the point where the shovels are connected with the arms makes it possible to move them at any desired angle with the arms.

This is to provide a horizontal instead of radial motion of the shovels while under the ties.

The empty shovels may then be operated back and forth to tamp the earth. This operation is repeated continually, the grader moving forward on the battery-length of track it has just finished.

FOR TRACK GRADING

MECHANICAL DEVICE THAT DOES AWAY WITH LABOR.

Idea of Duluth Man Means Great Saving in Expense of Building Railroads—Method Is Simple, but Highly Efficient.

While machines have been steadily taking the place of ordinary labor in most branches of work, the man with the shovel has held his position unchallenged in the work of grading and ballasting railroad track. Now, however, a railroad builder of Duluth, Minn., has devised a machine that he believes is destined to do the work of lifting jacks and the gangs of shovelers and tamers.

It consists of a self-propelled car, from one end of which extends a 34-foot truss boom carrying the track lifting device and a carriage on which are the shovel arms. The track lifting device consists of two traveling grappling arms which engage the rails at the joints and midpoints, and lift them until there is sufficient clear space beneath the ties for the shovels to operate. A battery of shovel arms is provided on each side. The battery on one side, or even the individual shovels in each battery, may be operated independently. The shovel arms have both a lateral and vertical motion, and a joint at the point where the shovels are connected with the arms makes it possible to move them at any desired angle with the arms.

The Scrubwoman's Lunch.

"I used to let my scrubwoman get herself a little lunch," said the city flat dweller. "It's the nice thing to do, I know, and I like to do it, but I had to quit in self-defense. She took an hour to get her lunch and eat it and charged me extra for the time she put in."

Girl Has Remarkable Voice.

A 10-year-old girl who sings bass was heard in a London hall the other day. Until a year ago she had the usual soprano voice of a girl of her age; then the voice grew deeper and deeper, and today it is as low as a man's. A specialist who examined her throat found the vocal chords to be singularly large and broad.

THIS MAN SUFFERED FROM INDIGESTION

From Liquid Foods, Soft Boiled Eggs, etc., is Now Able to Eat Anything and Do A Hard Day's Work Without Being Tired Out.

Joseph Armstrong of Farwell avenue, Milwaukee, made the following statement in connection with "Tona Vita," the remarkable new tonic that is now being introduced in Milwaukee:

"I have been a sufferer from indigestion and stomach trouble for the last three or four years. There were times when I could eat nothing but liquid foods; soft boiled eggs, toast and the like, and even this would cause a bloating of the stomach and misery beyond endurance. I suffered from sour stomach, bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning; suffered from extreme spolia of dizziness, and sleep gave me no benefit. I would awaken in the morning as tired and worn out as when I retired, and there were times when I felt that it was impossible to do my work. I was very nervous at times; attacked by violent headaches; frequently constipated, and, in fact, generally very badly run down. My circulation was poor. I almost always had cold feet, and was susceptible to coughs and colds.

"I had tried all kinds of medicines and had almost lost hope when a friend suggested 'Tona Vita.' This new medicine seems to soothe my stomach and acts as a tonic for my system. It has built me up in every way, and I feel like I've been born again. I can now eat anything and do a hard day's work without being tired out. I don't believe there is another medicine like it on earth."

The physicians who are introducing "Tona Vita" in Milwaukee are giving demonstrations of what the medicine will do in five minutes, and the Milwaukee public are flocking to the store where they are located. One of the physicians said: "Tona Vita" will break all records in this country; people are just beginning to realize what a great preparation it is here in Milwaukee. Thousands upon thousands in this and other large cities are afflicted with general debility. The entire system becomes affected in such cases and nervousness, stomach trouble, headache, backache, despondency and loss of vitality result. "Tona Vita" will work wonders in such cases in a remarkably short time."

Lee's Rubarb Laxative, the assistant preparation, is the best family laxative in the world. The natural medicinal qualities of rubarb—nature's purest and best laxative, are obtained in this medicine. Lee's Rubarb Laxative will not harm the weakest constitution and is therefore ideal for children. It is very pleasant to taste. The Smith Drug Co. has secured the agency in Janesville for these celebrated preparations.

TWO TEAMS IN TIE FOR SECOND PLACE IN LOCAL LEAGUE

Plumbers Jump in Second Place With Y. M. C. A. As Result of Saturday's Games in Commercial—Parkers And Caloric Still Lead.

STANDING OF TEAMS.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Parker Pen .....	2	0	1.000
Caloric .....	1	0	1.000
Y. M. C. A. ....	1	2	.333
Plumbers .....	1	2	.333
Hanson .....	0	1	.000

In the opening game of the season at Athletic park in the schedule of the Commercial league, the Plumbers, who were matched against the Hanson Furniture company's team, started a swiftest, which brought them their first victory of the season by a 19 to 0 score. Decker of the Plumbers held the Woodworkers down to four hits and pitched the ball. Krews, twirler for the Carvers, was hit for thirteen unearned runs. Errors at critical points of the game by the Hanson team, helped the Plumbers win.

The second game of the afternoon between the Parker Pen company and the Y. M. C. A., was the feature of the entertainment, the Penmakers putting a coat of whitewash on the Athletics after a fierce battle, the final score being 2 to 0. The winning scores were made in the first and ninth innings, two bases on balls, a hit, and an error giving the Parkers the first run, and a base on balls and an error in the final stanza bringing in the other tally. The Gymnasts had several opportunities where a pinch hit would have scored, but could not place the lucky bingle at the right time.

The results of Saturday's games leave things practically as they were in the league. By not playing on Saturday, it is possible that the Caloric nine was prevented from dropping back in second place, and now is tied for first place with the Parker Pen team. The Plumbers, by winning Saturday, jumped into a tie with the Y. M. C. A. for second place and left the Hanson company aggregation, who have just entered the league, as tail-enders.

CARDINALS AMATEUR CHAMPIONS OF CITY

Junior Baseball Organization Won Title Yesterday Afternoon in Game With Cubs—Madison Failed to Come.

In a game yesterday at the Fair grounds the Janesville Cardinals took the title of amateur baseball champions from the Janesville Cubs, the decision being given after a nine-inning battle with the score 2 to 1 in the Cardinals favor. The Cardinals thoroughly demonstrated their right to the honors although the Cubs fought hard to retain the honors which they had previously claimed. It was a royal battle and was thoroughly enjoyed by the small crowd of spectators, a large share of whom were rooting for the Cubs. Connell, the pitcher for the victors, was in the pink of condition and his work on the slab was especially praiseworthy, holding the Cubs to a few hits, mostly made on errors. Berger performed well on the slab for the Cubs. A feature of the game was a one handed stab by Emmett Connors on a hot liner over first base. The line-ups:

Cardinals: Wilson, c; Connell, p; F. Cronin, ss; Connors, 1b; Kelly, 2b; G. Cronin, 3b; Noblinsky, lf; Byrne, cf; M. Ryan, rf.

Cubs: Serlone, c; Berger, p; Green, ss; Hennings, 1b; Sullivan, 2b; Mur-

PROF. ELLIS METCHNIKOFF.

FAMOUS SCIENTIST GOING TO CHINA TO STUDY PLAGUE.

Paris, France.—All Europe is startled at the announcement that Prof. Ellis Metchnikoff, head of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, is going to China to study the plague with a hope of discovering a cure for the malady. A phrase commonly heard today is, "If Metchnikoff goes to combat the plague, he will triumph." This gives a sidelight on the public confidence in the scientist who has done so much in the lighting of disease to counteract its poisons. Metchnikoff is perhaps the father of that portion of modern medical science which deals with the actual saving of life. He is the dean of discoverers of antitoxins and serums, the man who as head of the Pasteur Institute has proved conquerable a large share of diseases that before his advent were deemed beyond the power of man to prevent or control.

PRESENT PETITIONS TO COMMON COUNCIL

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION WANT CITY FATHERS TO TAKE ACTION ON FIRE WORKS.

THE SANE FOURTH IDEA

Which Has Proved So Successful in Other Cities Is Urged For Janesville By The Ladies of the Order.

This evening the following petition will be presented to the common council asking their assistance and cooperation in making the coming celebration of the Fourth of July a sane one. The petition deserves due consideration by the aldermen and steps will doubtless be taken to conform with the wishes of the ladies and citizens generally in this matter.

Janesville is to have a military celebration this year that promises to give Young America all the excitement they want. There will be plenty of powder burst to suit the tastes of all, and if some of the common sense crackers who are in charge of the celebration should be done. The following is the petition which is signed by all the members of the Janesville chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The anniversary of our birth as a nation is approaching. It is a day which should appeal to every loyal American as a day to be venerated above all others. The day should give human life especial sanctity and value and not give, as at present through ignorance, weakness or indifference, the opportunity for it to be the one day in the year in which we sacrifice the lives and bodies of hundreds and thousands of little children.

Do, as Daughters of the American Revolution, appeal to you to help us to remedy this grievous condition by enacting such ordinances as shall remedy this evil and give us a "Sane Fourth," without the unnecessary demonstrations, customary, and which menace the lives of American youths and turn it, often to a day of mourning.

The women who are appointed to this position stand ready to aid any movement in this work that the wisdom of the council may direct.

Signed:

BROUGHT CHARGES AGAINST TAILOR

Mike Tully Arraigned in Municipal Court, Charged With Seizing Girl On Street, While He Was Under the Influence of Liquor.

Mike Tully, a tailor, was arrested this morning and arraigned in municipal court on a complaint made by City Attorney Maxfield charging that Tully had been in an intoxicated condition on Sunday evening and while in that condition had made an assault on a girl about sixteen years of age. Tully pleaded not guilty to the charges asserting that he had never been in the habit of speaking to any young woman on the street with whom he was not acquainted. The case was adjourned until next Monday in order that the city attorney might summon a witness and the complaint was given over to Chief of Police Appleby to hold, thus allowing Tully to go back to his work.

It is alleged that Tully had been drinking and while under the influence of the liquor, stopped the young lady in front of a jewelry store on Milwaukee street, near the bridge and seized her by the arm. The young lady, the city attorney alleges, objected to this treatment and jerked away from the man. It is also alleged that Tully attempted to repeat the performance with two other young women at the corner of West Milwaukee and South River streets. Tully declared that if he had spoken to the young woman it was because he was acquainted with them.

City Attorney Maxfield today intimated that he might bring up at the meeting of the council tonight an ordinance to prohibit flirting, ogling and other practices of the kind on the streets of the city. The city attorney declares the practice is carried beyond the limits of reason and should be strictly dealt with.

Four Drunks in Municipal Court Given Jail Sentences Today; Two Others Being Released.

Six over-Sunday and Sunday guests of the city in the city lock-up were brought into court today on charges of drunkenness and of the six four went to jail, one was released on taking the pledge and the charges against the other were dismissed. John Kelly, on his promise to repair a window which he had broken, was freed, it being testified that the man was not intoxicated. Legonda Rooney was given the freedom on taking the pledge. Of the others, George Engler will spend seven days with the sheriff because of a little inconvenience in being unable to secure the money to pay a fine of $1 and costs. John Hancock and Fritz Mitchell went down for three days each in default of payment of fines of $3, and John Clark will be given bond and lodging at the county hotel, not having funds for a fine of $1 and costs.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I would not give a fig
For that man's religion
Whose very dog and cat
Were not the better for it."

—Sydney Smith.

I wonder if in Sydney Smith's day people went away to the country in the summer to enjoy themselves and left their cats to starve, and that was what he was thinking about when he wrote those words?

No, I don't suppose so, for I doubt if the summer vacation were an institution in his day—did it ever occur to you, by the way, of what comparatively recent development this now firmly established annual exodus is? Why, it can't be more than fifty years at the most that a summer vacation has been regarded as a necessity.

But I'm sure Sydney Smith would say that again and make it even stronger if he could live today and be a witness to some of the torture to dumb animals which is caused by men and women who forget suffering, if they do not have to actually see it.

If a moving picture man could go to all the summer hotels and boarding houses and summer cottages and show a film representing the "cat that is left behind" prowling about dump heaps in the hope of getting a mouthful of nourishment out of some old soup can, being driven away from crumbs by growling, thinner and more miserable and finally either dying from starvation or being caught in its weakened state by dogs and mauled to death, do you suppose having the suffering they are responsible for actually brought before their eyes would soften some people's hearts any?

I wonder.
A word to the lady who is about to pack her bag for that vacation trip.

Had you intended to put in a hand mirror? If you hadn't, may I suggest that you do? The lady of Many Travels with whom I vacationed last summer says that she has caused herself more discomfort by omitting that article than any other. The average boarding house or hotel does not supply a hand mirror and not to be able to see one's back hair or the back of one's gown for two weeks, is apt to have a bad effect on the perfection of one's toilet making.

A brush broom is another article which the less travelled woman does not always remember to put in her grip and which the lady of Many Travels most heartily recommends as a good travelling companion.

They run and cold cream are two more travelling necessities, quite as useless to omit as your toothbrush, according to her point of view. The washing accommodations on trains and boats and even in many summer places are not always all that they might be and the water is often unpleasantly hard. In this contingency the woman who is armed with a flannel rag and either a bottle of bay rum or a jar of good facial cream (preferably the latter as bay rum is apt to dry the skin), will find herself greatly assisted in doing battle on travel stains.

also they weigh almost nothing and are comfortable.

The black hat is made of a very soft silk fiber braid, with a large ornament made of a similar braid in king's blue. Two quill ribs are mounted in this ornament at the left side. They are smart, but not jaunty like quills, and are therefore suited to older women. The hat is bound with velvet about the face.

The second hat is made of silk braid in two colors. The crown is in champagne color and the brim in black. It is finished with a piping of satin about the face and satin buttons. The very clever draping

Naturally such hats shape themselves to the wearer's head and are becoming.

The Ordeal by Test.

Weird tales of the remarkable manner of administration of justice resorted to by natives of the Lower Niger territory were given lately by a party of British traders who visited the river. If a native is accused of theft, the heads of the village make a decoction of herbs and put into the accused a grain of ground pepper. The liquid is then lightly applied to the eyelids. If the subject weeps he is considered guilty. But the ordeal test is an improvement upon that of theft. The "wise man" of the district draws a vessel of water, into which he puts some poison. Then he takes a cow's tail and "asperses" the eyes of the supposed assassin. If the man becomes blind he is pronounced a murderer.

NEW CONTEST FOR WOMEN.

Of course you have tried out that recipe that you intend to send in for The Gazette contest for July 7. These hot days have given almost every housewife an opportunity to test her ability at a hot weather dish and the result will be certain to be most acceptable.

When writing your recipe out write on one side of the paper only and mail to the Feature Editor. You can send two or three in. If you wish, so that the judges may pass on one of them. You are not confined to a salad, even hot dishes are enjoyed when tastefully prepared. The contest closes the first day of July, so be sure and have your recipe ready by that time.

Fireless Cooker Recipes.

An ideal way of cooking ham is to let it come to a boil in the kettle, then put it into the cooker and let it stand six hours. If yours is a home-made cooker you may have to take it out and reheat once during the time. Then remove from the water, cut off the rind, stick a few dozen cloves in it, and bake an hour in a moderate oven. If a cup of sweet elder is added to the water just before putting into the cooker it will add greatly to the flavor.

Chicken Soup.—Save the water in which the chicken has been stewed. The next day crack the bones of the fowl, add any of the bits of meat left, a slice of onion and four tablespoonfuls of sage. Bring to the boiling point and place in the cooker three or four hours. Strain and reheat, adding a well-beaten egg and the seasoning just before serving.

There is no manner of cooking cereal so perfectly as in a fireless cooker. As a rule, the directions on the package of cereal gives too short a time for cooking. The fireless cooker cooks every grain, rendering them soft and digestible. In cooking grains and cereals it is better to set the dish into another, double boiler fashion, adding the heat in the water in the two dishes. This hastens the cooking.

Old-Fashioned Oatmeal.—Take one cup of oatmeal and three and a half cups of water. Drop the oatmeal into the boiling salted water and boil for ten minutes, then put into the cooker for four or five hours, or this may be put to cook at night and reheated for breakfast. One has always to bear in mind that there is no evaporation in the cooker, so less water is needed to cook any food.

Rice is a cereal that is beautifully cooked in a cooker. Heat a quart of milk to the boiling point, add a cup of rice, salt, cinnamon and sugar to taste and boil for ten minutes, then place in the cooker for three hours. Every grain will be distinct and thoroughly soft.

DIET IN OBESITY.

Obesity cannot be controlled entirely by diet, although it is the principal factor. It is customary to reduce the amount of water taken to not more than one quart, the normal quantity being two quarts, including all drinks. The foods to be especially avoided in obesity are: Sweets, pork, veal, prepared dishes, potatoes, white bread, oatmeal, hominy, rice, fats, beans, carrots, turnips, parsnips, cream, soups. Fish and lean beef are the least objectionable of the meats. Stale graham is the best bread.

FOR THE PURSUE THE MOMENT

(By Roy K. Moulton.)

She talks no silly nonsense, she's willing to do a day's work. She's ready to bear all the hardships that a man must stand.

She loves to tote a dinner pail and work all day to earn the kale to keep a family living on the best that's in the land.

She simply dotes on splitting wood. She'd not be idle if she could. She always loves to meet the hill collectors at the dock.

She loves to wear plain clothes and hats. She doesn't care for curls or rits or any of the silly things that women liked of yore.

She loves to work day and night to keep finances running right and stick around an office six days out of every week.

She likes to make the furnace go and in the garden make and hoe and climb upon the kitchen roof to try and stop a leak.

She likes to stand up in the car and ride, it matters not how far. We've heard a lot about her but she hasn't got here yet.

She thinks the men have got a snub. She wants to do like him and pun. The lady whom we speak of is the model suffragette.

Woman in Modern Times.
The woman movement of modern times, properly understood, has been the effort of women to adapt themselves to the conditions of an orderly and peaceful civilization. Education, under the changed conditions, can affect what before needed force of arms; responsibility is now demanded where before only tutelage was possible. A civilized society in which women are ignorant and irresponsible is an anachronism, and, however great the wrench with the past might be, it is necessary that women should adjust themselves to the changing times.

The ideal of the weak, ignorant, inexperienced woman—the cross between angel and an idiot, as I have elsewhere described her—no longer fulfilled any useful purpose. Civilized society furnishes the conditions under which all are free to give to society the best they are capable of.—Havelock Ellis in the Metropolitan.

Dainty Costumes

The bodice is made like a blouse fastened in front and joined to the same band as the skirt; the collar, waist-band and sleeve trimmings are of the plaid. The tucked net yoke and under-sleeves are made up separately from the bodice.

Soft straw hat trimmed with folds of silk round the crown; the brim is turned up at the left side and is fixed by a buckle, through which are passed the quills of two pheasant's feathers.

Materials required: Five yards 46 inches wide, 2 1/2 yards silk 22 inches wide, 1 1/2 yards tucked net 18 inches wide.

The second design illustrated here works out well in striped tweed or flannel; our model is in light brown, finely striped tweed; the short walking skirt is trimmed with a band of tan-colored face cloth headed by brown braid; small buttons trim the left side of front.

The coat is double breasted and semi-fitting; it has a deep collar faced with the plain cloth and edged with braid; buttons form the fastening.

Hat of attached cloth, trimmed with a shaded bow wing.

Materials required: Six yards tweed 48 inches wide, three-quarters yard plain cloth 46 inches wide, about four yards braid, four yards skirt lining, 1 1/2 yards silk for lining coat.

An Article of Merit.
We know that there are scores of hair-tonics on the market that possess little if any intrinsic merit. This fact led the directors of the American Drug and Pross Association to search far and wide and experiment thoroughly before finally adopting Meritol Hair Tonic for its association stores throughout the country. The result is a preparation guaranteed without an equal for the hair. It is a germ destroyer, antiseptic, and purifying in its action. It opens the pores of the scalp, keeps it pure and healthy, kills the germs and microbes, and assists nature to restore natural color of the hair by enabling it to draw its own coloring matter from the pigment glands of the scalp. A trial will convince you that there is no preparation for the hair that compares with Meritol Hair Tonic sold in Janesville only by the Reliable Drug Co., association representatives.

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but I knew all about it. I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2903 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did; and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing peculiarities of their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Oriswold was down here to see me about the case," the chief informed him. "He tells me you induced Mott to postpone it for a month."

"I'm reaching out for the real thief," Britz returned. "I've got him, Manning. He can't get away."

"Well, who's the thief?" the chief inquired tersely.

Britz averted his face to conceal the unwelcome agitation that had suddenly sprung up within him. A new light gleamed in his eyes—a light not called up by the excitement of the chase. The mere tracking of criminals was part of the routine of his life; he followed the course of his trade unemotionally, like a well-oiled machine. But the contemplation of saving a human soul in distress, the consciousness of exercising his talents in behalf of a woman who had touched his utmost pity, the knowledge that he alone stood between her and the living death that awaited her in state prison, increased the pulsation of his heart, thrilled him with a sense of noble purpose that was a new and agreeable exaltation. When he regained his customary nonchalance he fixed his gaze on the chief and, in a tone of cold indifference, said:

"The thinnest of veils is drawn between the thief and his complete exposure. I am not prepared to draw the veil aside yet. But it will be torn away shortly—very shortly. And then he'll stand revealed before the world."

"As mysterious as ever," the chief commented with a show of impatience. "Go ahead in your own way."

CHAPTER XVII.

A Pair of Thieves.
Two men, late on that February afternoon, were hastening eagerly along snow-covered routes to the bachelor home of Braxton Sands. One was Sands himself. The other was Lieutenant Britz of Headquarters.

Every detail in the millionaire's suite in the St. Barnabas and of his private room in the Bowling Green office was known to Britz even more minutely than to the owner. That had been among the early activities of the sleuth in connection with the case. He was able to assure himself, therefore, that no matter how much Sands might admire the Maharajah diamond, especially when it encircled the white throat of the wealthy widow, it would be nonsensical to suppose this admiration could descend to covetousness. Clearly, Britz was in some sort of blind alley.

As the two men left their offices almost to the minute, Britz, many blocks ahead of Sands, had arrived at the St. Barnabas before the millionaire turned the Grace church bend in Broadway. Sands' man, when the detective announced he was there for an important talk with the millionaire, admitted Britz readily to Sands' suite.

Britz, sitting in a great leather armchair in an attitude of sybaritic ease, chose a cigarette from his pocket case, and then, with his eyes fixed on the ceiling and his hands clasped at the back of his neck, he gave himself up to as many moments of uninterrupted thought as the non-arrival of the unconscious host would permit. He had reached a point in his meditations that for an instant seemed to open a way for an explanation, for which he had come to see Sands, when a faint rustling in the adjoining room reached his acute ear.

A ribbon of subdued light between portieres of Moorish leather gave passage to his glance. He saw a shadow flutter at a far window and, in the next instant, rapidly and noiselessly, he had slid out of the armchair until he was on his knees on the rug behind the shelter of a library table piled high with books. Inch by inch, soundless, Britz lifted one knee until his foot rested firmly on the floor; inch by inch, still without a sound, he raised the other. When he was fairly on his feet, but in a crouching attitude, he half walked, half crawled, around the table by the longer way, until he was close to the portieres. Britz was too good a sleuth to make the mistake of looking between the portieres to get a glimpse of the inner room, at was no part of his program to be seen by Sands' other visitor, or visitors. He felt justified in giving way to his curiosity because it might be as much to the millionaire's interests as to his own—to say nothing of Mrs. Missioner's, and that of the public. In fact, the headquarters man did not waste much time in such reflections. He wanted to see and hear what was going on, and he took the readiest means of doing so. Instead of risking the danger of being seen between the parting of the portieres, he pierced with his sharp pin a tiny hole in the leather curtain behind which he stood, and applying one eye closely, he could see the whole inner room. It was the millionaire's bedroom, and he commanded everything except the angle in which was set the window where he had glimpsed the shadow. A slightly more vigorous twist or two of the pin enlarged the microscopical aperture, so that he could see even that detail of the interior. Britz almost grunted with satisfaction at what he witnessed in the next few minutes. The shadow man was still at the window, flitting, flitting to and fro, rising and falling. It crouched outside the window in such a way as showed Britz it was on a fire escape or a balcony of some sort. The rustling sound increased, and it was followed by a faint "cheep," like a sparrow's call. A second shadow fluttered from a point above the window and melted into the outlines of the first. Then came a slightly rasping sound, and the lower end, Britz noticed, trembled. By well-nigh imperceptible degrees the shadow was lifted. The next instant two men noiselessly lowered themselves to the floor and glanced hastily about the room. Illumined by the swift look, they tiptoed along the walls from right to left; one of them stopped at a chiffonier, the other continued his little journey of investigation until he arrived at the portieres. Then it was that Britz held his breath. He held it for seconds that seemed as tedious as hours, while the nearer of the strange visitors, separated from him only by the thickness of the leather, peered through the parting between the curtains into the library where the detective stood.

Britz had not obtained a good view of the intruder's face, for it was half hidden by a loose fold of the turban upon his head that indicated the stranger's nationality. Britz's eyes still were fixed at the hole, and by that time the stranger was out of his line of vision. Had such not been the case, it is possible that even the imperious Britz would have moved at least to the extent of a swift reach to a side pocket in his coat. For it was about as evil a countenance as one could expect to see anywhere, save under the shadow of the gallows. In its rapacity, ferocity, blood thirstiness and cruelty of every degree spoke loudly. If that savage face had advanced an inch or two nearer, those snake eyes would have seen the man from Mulberry street who shrank into himself behind the shelter of the protecting strip of leather. But it did not; and, after a leisurely survey of the interior, the Oriental returned to the other end of the inner room and rejoined his companion.

Hardly had Britz begun to let the air seep out of his lungs, and before he had indulged in the luxury of an intake of breath, when he became an interested spectator in the gentlemanly art of searching a gentleman's room. The Central office man was no Vidocq. It is doubtful if he had even read Poe's story of "The Missing Letter," and had he done so, it is by no means certain he would have adapted the methods of the French police to metropolitan detective work. Nevertheless, he had flattered himself that he usually made a pretty thorough search for anything he wanted; but what he saw through that tiny pin hole in the leather portieres showed him that he was the veriest tyro in that sort of thing. The two visitors went through the millionaire's furniture and other possessions with a minuteness that would have made a fine-tooth comb look like a garden rake. There could not have remained anything—any book or corner, any crack or crevice, not anything larger than a bacillus which they happened to covet. If an article no bigger than a pinhead had been the object of their hunt, their untiring scrutiny would have brought it to light. Yet so doltishly had they searched that, granting them a minute's respite, they could have left the room without any traces of their activity.

Their search seemed fruitless until they arrived at a desk under a hanging incandescent lamp, at which Britz assumed Sands was in the habit of writing his more personal letters. From one of the pigeon-holes, one of the intruders drew something that cracked slightly as the man stuffed it into the folds of his tunic. From a neighboring compartment of the desk, the second stranger drew another find, which he in turn hastily hid in the same way. With lightning rapidity, they went through every part of the desk. In that same instant Britz felt rather than heard a footstep behind him, and, jerking a glance over his shoulders, saw Sands advancing upon him angrily. With a quick uplift of his hand, the detective stopped the millionaire in his tracks, and then drew him quietly toward the portieres and motioned for him to look through the hole in the leather. Sands bent a little, and then glanced wonderingly into the bedroom. He raised a face of astonished inquiry to Britz. He was answered by another silencing gesture from the sleuth. He looked once more through the tiny hole just in time to see the Hindoo straighten himself from their crouching attitude over the desk and turn toward the window. His hand thrust itself into his coat pocket, he slipped into the opening in the portieres with a single stride, and, leveling an automatic pistol that looked more like a block of steel than anything else, he cried: "Hands up!"

The men did not turn; instead, they leaped for the window, followed by Britz and Sands. Quick as they were, they were not quick enough for the headquarters man. Launching his very form as a tiger springs, Britz, pistol in hand, hurled himself between the foremost Indian and the open window and seized him in his strong grasp. Sands, almost as rapid in his movements in spite of his bulk, lunged a powerful arm about the throat of the other intruder, and with his other hand closed the window with a crash. Britz and Sands dragged their prisoners to the other side of the room and forced them down upon a couch. Then the sleuth, slipping his pistol back into his pocket, seized the Indian Sands was holding by the throat, and, more as an order than a request, asked the millionaire to bind the captives.

"I think I recognize you, my dear young friend," he said. "You are two of the dark jokers who had fun with me in Central Park and Riverside Drive last evening. I think it's about time for me to return the compliment with a merry little jest of my own." Turning his head to the millionaire, he said again: "If you have any silk handkerchiefs to spare, Mr. Sands, please use them as handkerchiefs. These gentlemen are accustomed to silk, and I would not like to use anything cheaper on them than they used on me. I suppose if we trusted them up with cotton or hemp, they'd die of mortification."

The detective's sarcasm was lost on Sands until he thought to recount in a few brief words his abduction in the park and the struggle for life that had followed it. It was evident that, in spite of the detective's coolness, he had some feeling on the subject. In fact, his manner toward the now cowering Hindoo was more or less revengeful. Sands fell in with the humor of the situation, and in a very few minutes the Easterners were bound with silk handkerchiefs as soft, yet strong, as any scarf they could have produced in the bazaars of Calcutta or Cawnpore. When the task was done, and it was done pretty neatly, Britz relaxed his hold on the half-struggling men's throats and pushed them against the back of the sofa until they half-sat, half-lay there, head to head. Then he stepped back, rested his hands on his hips, and eyed them mockingly.

"You are not very clever," he said, "but anyway, you're a fine-looking body of men. What do you think of yourselves, anyhow? Think you'll cut out this 'second story' game? Or will you content yourselves with the safer occupation of dips? My private advice to you is to try hencoops for a while. Cut out the big circuit, and go and get a reputation."

Forms of Oath.
A Chinaman has been thus sworn in: On entering the box the witness immediately knelt down, and a china saucer having been placed in his hand he broke it. The officer of the court through an interpreter then addressed him thus: "You shall tell the truth and the whole truth, and if you do not tell the truth your soul will be cracked like the saucer." A Mohammedan witness first placed his right hand on the Koran, put the other hand to his forehead and brought the top of his forehead down to the book and touched it with his head. He then looked for some time upon it, and being asked what effect that ceremony was to produce, answered that he was bound by it to speak the truth. The deposition of a Gentoo has been received who touched with his hand the foot of a Brahmin. Buddhists have been sworn by "the three holy existences—Buddha, Dhamma and Pro Sangha—and the devotees of the twenty-two Armaments," and a Parsee on the Zend Avesta, or by binding a "holy cord" round his body.—From the Law Times.

Lovely Time.
"Yes," remarked Mrs. Malaprop-Partington, "we had a lovely time in Venice. There are no cabs there, you know, because the streets are full of water. One hires a chundeller and he rows you about in a dongola."

Daily Thought.
Time is infinitely long and each day is a vessel into which a great deal may be poured.—If one will actually fill it up.—Goethe.

Jupiter's the Sky Thief.

The planet Jupiter has been found guilty, on both direct and circumstantial evidence, of stealing comets, says Prof. D. J. McAdam, writing in Harper's Weekly. There are some thirty comets whose orbits lie so close to Jupiter's that the homages which they seem to pay to him cannot be accidental. But Jupiter has been caught red-handed. In 1767, as a certain comet was passing Jupiter's orbit on its 48-year period, Jupiter tried to steal it and succeeded in reducing its period to one of five and a half years. But Jupiter cannot catch every comet which he attacks. In 1779 he tried again, and his greed spoiled his work. He pulled out the period of its orbit from five and a half to twenty-seven years. In 1866 Jupiter pulled back the orbit to one of seven years and split it into five pieces. His next chance will arrive in 1921, when he may capture or destroy it.

Bear Surveys Engine.

Altoona, Pa.—A large black bear was seen by James Krauss, employed in the Pennsylvania yards here, and by other railroaders, meandering along the edge of the woods close to the tracks the other day. Bruin did not seem to be afraid of the sporting horses and after a survey slowly retired to the mountains again.

Appropriately Named.

"I see you've got a new horse, Jones," said the summer commuter observantly, as he was being driven home from the station. "He looks fat and sleek. What's his name?" "I call him after that there Indian—you know—I dunno as the Indian was particular slow, but the name seems to suit this horse all right. Old up, you, Pokyhorse!"

No Rash Promises.

"Wombat must have made garden before." "Does about it in an intelligent manner, does he?" "Yes, he isn't promising his friends any vegetables."

"We."

The use of "we" among kings was begun by King John of England in 1119. When editors began to say "we" is not known.

Envy.

Most people would be satisfied with the kind of a living they are making if other people were not living better.

Hear! Hear!

The city beautiful movement if properly pushed will help not only the individual, but the entire community, and especially the property owner and the householder. The public health is also more or less involved. Are you contributing to the movement? If not, where is your public spirit and civic pride?—Birmingham News.

Work for the Young Man.

There is a place for you, young man, and there is a work for you to do. Rouse yourself up and go after it. Put your hands cheerfully and proudly to honest labor. A Spanish maxim runs: "He who loathes wealth, loathes much; he who loathes a friend, loathes more; but he who loathes his energies, loathes all."
